To Whom it May Concern:

This is to proudly recognize and commend
Hans Betancourth, for outstanding contributions to the musical and cultural life of our community.

As an active member of The Rutland Free Public Library and the community, Hans has demonstrated exceptional dedication and leadership in developing and enhancing musical programs. His commitment to research, innovation, and excellence has greatly enriched the cultural experiences offered at our library and within our community.

In addition to technical proficiency, Hans has shown exemplary leadership, teamwork, and communication skills. His ability to collaborate with diverse teams, mentor fellow musicians, and engage audiences of all ages—particularly through his fluent and effective English communication—has been instrumental to the success of numerous events and initiatives.

Hans' work is distinguished by thorough research, a deep understanding of musical traditions, and a visionary approach to program development. His passion for the arts, combined with a strong academic focus, positions him exceptionally well for future doctoral studies, professional opportunities, and contributions to academic and performance programs in leading institutions and libraries.

We wholeheartedly recommend Hans Betancourth for any academic, professional, or artistic endeavor they choose to pursue.

Respectfully,

Kerry Remington
Library Director
